Grammar Exercise

To, Too and Two

The word "to" can be used as a preposition before a noun or as part of the infinitive of a verb.

Examples:

Used as a preposition: Please take me to the store.

Used in an infinitive: I want to go to the beach.

The word "too" can be used as a synonym for the word "also" or it can indicate excessiveness.

Examples:

Used as a synonym for "also": I am going to the park, too.

Used to show excessiveness: I have too many shoes!

The word "two" spells out the number 2.

Fill in the blanks with the appropriate words.

Conversation Practice

Autumn (also called fall) officially begins on September 23rd. As the seasons change, we say goodbye to the summer and welcome new beginnings. The summer bounty of fruits and berries is replaced by the autumn harvest. The weather begins to change. In the autumn, students end their summer vacations and go back to school, the fall season of sports begins, and a new season of television programs begins.

Talk to your conversation partner about what the autumn means to you. What are some of your favorite things to do this season? Is there a fall harvest festival that you like to celebrate? Do you enjoy fall sports? Is there a television program you enjoy watching? Are you a leaf peeper (someone who likes to look at the colorful fall foliage)?

What will you miss most about the summer? What won't you miss about the summer?

1. too 2. to 3. to 4. two 5. to, too 6. to, two, too 7. too
